Intraday Thoughts – Neutral-to-Slightly Bearish

USD/MYR opened 0.06% lower at 4.4425 and slid to 4.4365 at the point of writing. Daily outlook is neutral-to-slightly bearish today on MYR strength and USD weakness, the latter seeing the DXY breaching below the 106-handle to 105.93 at the point of writing. Trading activities will likely remain lacklustre today given the lack of catalyst and amid shortened US trading hours in the US today.

1-Month Outlook – USD/MYR Neutral

The USD/MYR outlook is neutral as traders continue to trade cautiously in the USD on uncertainties over the pace of rate cuts especially in view of Trump’s potentially inflationary policies going forward and softer, but still resilient labour data released recently. That said, we believe increasing odds of a slower pace of Fed rate cuts especially going into 2025, will limit downside in the USD going forward. On the domestic front, the delay in the implementation of RON95 subsidy retargeting to mid-2025 will further push back upside risks to inflation, reaffirming our view for an extended pause in the OPR probably through next year. The prospects of narrowing in rate differentials, favourable economic outlook and domestic reforms, ongoing initiatives to encourage flows, will continue to support the MYR, despite likelihood of near-term volatility in the midst of political and policy noises in the US.
